as vehicles, loads, and routes to improve safety and reduce transportation times. Through the use of new applications, involving innovative technologies and integrating data/communication needs, we will fulfill our transportation needs and coordinate agency requirements. ITS can play a role in the rapid mass evacuation of people in urban centers after mass casualty events or as a result of a natural disaster or threat. Much of the infrastructure and planning involved with ITS parallels that needed for homeland security. Description condensed due to space requirements.
